The remarks made in the senate on Tuesday upon the cliaracter and career of the late vice-president of the United Stans, were in accord with well-srablished usags. That is, they were wholly eulogistic and encommistic, rather than candic, discriminating and just. The old saying, De mortus wil niss thurm, conforms to the feelings of nature; and wet the observance of it often dees great harm. It tends to place all characters on a level, and especially to make it appear that all public men deserve equally well of their country and of history. It misedwell of their country and of the open by keeps plive errors one principles; since admiration for vinciples which he has advocated and the pohis death, kept alive a passionate admiration of Rapoleon's character and of his principles of action; and the result was that aggressive pol cy on the part of the French people which brought them to deep hamiliation through the war with Germany. Writers like Thiers were responsible for this. It is wrong to indulge an indiscrimina a culogy of the tonn-though dead—whose principles were wrong. It misleads and perverts the midds of the coming generations, and history will avenge itself.

n the case of Mr. Headric & this is not likely, indeed, to prove so in any purceptible degree, since he was not a very great man and has not borne any very great part in history; but the principle it the same. It is no three indeed, to such of him under the influence, ence of a captions spirit. His career is closed, and they who speak of him rit of history, rather than of more adulation. Mr. Hendricks was merely a negative force in the affairs of his time. He was on the wrong side of every great question. His principles side of every great question. His principles gainst extional unity, opposed and voted gainst all efforts to abolish it, and sustained the system of politics that surrounded it. This is truth, and there is no gainsaying it. His on the strenuous apposition of his and its civilization, and prepared it for a new nationality, and just regard for the rights of then.

Such was Thomas A. Hendricks in his public cheructer. In his private life, as is often the case with it one who expouse the had cause, he was estimable and exemplary. The native kindness of his heart no one even doubted. Against his integrity, in public or private station, no word was ever spoken. But the principle and indivisible United States of America.

STILL DEMANDING "REASONS."

Fresident Cleveland cannot give the senate the real reason why he has removed from office the hodividuals about whose dismissal that body is making inquiries. He cannot do so because he has needlessly hampered, himself by his proclamations and bulletine on c vil service reform. He wont of far as to intimate that officials who were doing their duty should be permitted to serve out their respective terms,—only remarking that spile as had been quitty of "offensive partisonerip" in office should be removed. Nevertheliss, many who cannot be called offen-sive partisane have been dismissed; and now the senate thinks it can obtain an advantage over the president by making it appear that he has president it is well known, has removed large numbers from office only because they were re-publicing, and in order that he might have op-portunity to appoint democrats. But he cannot say this to be senate and to the country. To do would be to contradict himself. Yet the son-e is hoping to catch him in this strait and se-numbers from office only because they were re-politicans and in order that be might have an opportunity to appoint democrate, at must in fairness and candor be said that he had a right to do this, and in Republicars beld nearly all the places when he democrafii as could not possibly have retained the support of his party; and, even though he was hast; I his promise that none but 'offen-sive partisans' should be removed, the senat-hus no right to insist that he shall take a course that would separate him from his party and leave his administration without support. Again, all republicans only possible was of putting the civil service on a basis which will keep it from being used as an engine of partiennship is to divide 1 pretty, equally between the two parties. It may be found, however, that President Cleveland, here there is the term that are the two fore the close of his term, has gone much further than this; for if he appoints none but domocrate ne terms expire, republicans, in office in March, 1859, will be as few as democrate in office ere in March, 1885. But we regret to see the senate take its present course. It is merely badgering the president, because it thinks it has him at a disadvantage. There is no dignity in this; and it looks, moreover, too much like a mere game of partiesnehip. The affair quite reminds us of the scene in "King Henry IV." Poins exclaims. "Come, pour reason, Jack; your reason." And the int man with the nlimble wit answers, "What, upon compulsion? No; were I at the strappado or all the racks in the world. I would not tell you on compulsion. Give you a reason on compulsion! If reasons were as plenty as binckberries, I would give no man a reason upon compulsion, L." This is now about the state of the case between the president and the senate.

LOCAL OPTION LAW SIGNED. The losal option put that passed the legisla-tine of Wzehington with such enthusiasm some, days ago has received the signature of Gov. Squire. Strong pressure was throught to bear upon him to prevent this by men engaged in the liquor traffic, the principal argument being that local option was not alive issue of the compaign which resulted in the choice of the legislative body of Washington territory, and that the members had therefore no right toispeak for the people mon a question involving such grave pecuniary considerations to a considerable number of citizens. Whatever convictions of they. Squire were upon the expediency of the measure, it is evicent that be could have accomplished nothing by a veto, inasmuch as the bill passed the house by a manimors vote, and the council by a vote of nine to hree; hence the labor of preparing a secto message would have been lost.

There is no reason, however, to suppose, that the governor thought the law an undesirable or unjust one. It is simple in construction and of plain intent. It proposes merely that the mojority in each predict shall decide as to whether Lquor shall be sold thereir. If, as those war protest against the law assert, it was epring upon the people by a minority repre-senting the fanatical temperance sentimen: of the territory, its operations are still subject to the decision of the majority, and by this decision it will stand or fall in every community. As the assertion voiced by the Tacoma Ledger that the law was passed by the undue in-figence of "button-hole bocquets" canningly heatowed for the purpose of flattering legisla-tors, it is no childhed as to purpose set scales area on the faces of those who feel themselves set deeply aggrieved because of its passage.
